

Phillips Theological Seminary invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track or tenured position in History of Global Christianities and Christian Imperialism to begin July 1, 2022. We are especially interested in historical methodology that engages interdisciplinary, transdisciplinary, and postcolonial approaches to religious identity, religion and violence, and religion and genocide.

Phillips is in Tulsa, OK which commemorated the 100th year anniversary of the 1921 Race Massacre, identified as the worst race massacre in American history. Applications from historians committed to cultural expressions of Christianity within Africana, Latinx, and/or Indigenous American communities whose historical inquiries consider racial, ethnic, gender, and queer categories for reflection are particularly desired. PhD/ABD considered, PhD or ThD preferred. Competency in online teaching and learning is also required. Knowledge of ministerial praxis and commitment to emerging ministries are desirable. The successful candidate will teach in all Master degree programs (MTS, MA(SJ), MAMC, and MDiv) and the Doctor of Ministry degree program. A scholarly trajectory that leads to the development of a professional profile that includes publications is essential.

Persons within the Wesleyan tradition (e.g., UMC, AME, AMEZ, CME), women, persons of color, LGBTQIA+ persons, and veterans are strongly encouraged to apply.

Interested applicants please submit a cover letter detailing relevant academic and professional experience, a curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information of at least three references to tammye.jurena@ptstulsa.edu. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2021.

Phillips is an Equal Opportunity, ecumenical seminary of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). We are approved by the University Senate of the United Methodist Church. See www.ptstulsa.edu/employment for position description, employment policies, and more information.
